Alan Ka-Lun LUNG

Alan Lung was locally born and educated. He was also educated at the University of Wisconsin in the USA and Wilfrid Laurier University in Canada.

He started his working career at an international advertising agency in Hong Kong. He has broad business experience that included: a posting as general manager of an international advertising agency in Singapore, technology sales experience and a recent involvement as chief commercialization officer at a technology start-up based in the Hong Kong Science Park and the Innovation and Entrepreneur Hub (E Hub) in Qianhai, Shenzhen.

Alan has broad public policy development experience. He chaired the Hong Kong Democratic Foundation (a political think tank founded by Sir Jimmy McGregor and Dr. Leong Che Hung) from 1997 to 2014. He is also skilled in converting his knowledge of governments and public policies into practical steps to move forward Knowledge-based Economy initiatives. He is also a member of Chatham House an international relations think tank.

Alan is now Co-convenor (International) of Path of Democracy, a political think tank founded in 2015.
